Session 1 - The Self-Awareness Advantage: Strategies for Personal & Professional Growth

Wed, Aug 19 | 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm

According to researchers Bradberry & Greaves, one-fourth of our Emotional Intelligence and a huge predictor of career and life success, is how well we know ourselves. Join us for this highly-practical, engaging session designed to increase your understanding of who you are and your unique tendencies when navigating life. These self-awareness insights will help you grow in your career, your relationships, and every aspect of your life.

Session 2 - Leading Others Through Organizational Change: Strategies & Insights for Leadership Success

Wed, Sept 16 | 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm

This engaging, interactive session is focused on strategies for leading a team through workplace changes. We'll start by identifying common emotional stages that team members go through during periods of change. We'll then work into strategies for navigating the change yourself, along with the do's and don'ts of leading a team through change. Finally, we'll discuss what to do with the No-No's, meaning those who are strongly opposed to the change and are stirring up anxiety in other team members about the change.

Session 3 - Keeping Standards High: Holding Accountable the Under-Performing or Difficult Employee

Wed, Oct 21 | 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm

Several well respected research studies have demonstrated that being a more positive person has significant benefits for our lives. "Real-World Positivity" means that being a positive person is not about putting on rose-colored glasses and dismissing the very real heartaches in life. People with Real-World Positivity are highly compassionate, while also recognizing the importance of not dwelling on the small, daily annoyances that we all experience. In this practical, interactive program, we will explore compelling research on the benefits of being more positive, along with several user-friendly strategies for developing a brighter outlook on life.

Session 4 - Introverts Unite...Separately! Strategies for the Quieter Among Us in Social and Professional Spaces

Wed, Nov 4 | 1:00 pm – 3:00 pm

One thing that Brenda has learned through her speaking and travels is that there are many highly-successful introverts in job roles that require considerable social interaction. In fact, many people have no idea how many people they work with who have limited social batteries and need regular time alone to recharge. Whether you are naturally outgoing or tend to be more reserved, this fascinating session will provide practical insights and strategies for success...for the quieter among us.
